

Brooklyn, Jan. 9, 1836.

My dear Henry:

Last evening, I was somewhat disappointed in not receiving my bundle of newspapers, but am patiently looking for it by this afternoon's stage.

Robert D. Sharpe, of Abington, has paid me $2.00 for the Liberator, in advance for the present year, which I enclose. He says he has not received No. 52 of the last volume, and wishes you to send it to complete his file.

I wish you to transmit Helen's letter to me in the bundle.

The accompanying letters please convey to Miss Chapman, Miss Annidown, and Miss Clark.

Mr. Parrish expired while I was in Boston, and was buried on the day before my return. He retained his senses to the last, but did not converse much, through physical inability.

I want to receive a copy of the second edition of Dr. Channing's book, as soon as practicable.

John Edward has been somewhat unwell with the mumps, but is now much better.

The slippery walking has caused several people to trip in the village. Mr. Joseph Williams broke his shoulder-bone a few days since.

I suppose brother George has written to you, informing you that little Anna has been sick with the scarlet fever, but is now convalescent.

All are well.

Yours, W. L. G.

P. S. Sunday evening — The bundle has just come. I meant to have forwarded this package by the stage yesterday, but missed it by about one minute.

I hope friend Knapp will keep an eye upon the doings and sayings in Congress upon our question, and publish all he can find.

Father is very much obliged to you for your present of Granville Sharpe's life, and to brother May for the numbers of the Herald of Peace.

I shall write a letter and send it in season to bro. May, to be read at the Annual Meeting. Have you yet obtained a hall? I entreat, that the new Board of Managers may be elected from among old and sound materials. Let there be no electioneering after respectable and influential persons.

A piece of poetry, respecting Washington's slaves, appeared some time since in the N. Y. Evangelist, which I sent on for insertion. I hope it has not been lost.

Rev. Mr. Wilson wishes bro. May to send him a number of Channing's works as soon as convenient. Put them into my bundle.

Will bro. May write a paragraph for the next paper about the annual meeting — in advance.

Mr. Henry E. Benson,
Boston,
Mass.
